

First Catch Center (FCC) Frequent Asked Questions

What is a FCC?

A FCC is a mobile trailer outfitted with fishing supplies and other materials to help elevate fishing in underserved and underrepresented communities.

What is the purpose of a FCC?

The purpose of a FCC is to promote fishing and conservation efforts by recruiting anglers where they are in their communities in a fun and safe environment.

How does a state agency get one?

Any state agency that sees the need to incorporate a FCC is invited to apply for a FCC through an easy online application. Once accepted, RBFF will reach out to the state agency for further steps.

What is the cost of a FCC?

The cost of obtaining a FCC for a state agency is free. RBFF supplies each agency with up to $25,000 to help with finding and outfitting each trailer to their unique needs.

Are state agencies responsible for outfitting the trailer?

Yes and no. RBFF will provide each state agency initially with up to $25,000 for finding and outfitting each new trailer. RBFF can help with limited funds to help replenish equipment in the FCC's second year. In the long-term, it is the state agency's responsibility to source funding and or donations to maintain the FCC.

How many events are required to participate in the FCC program?

State agencies are asked to host a minimum of eight programs incorporating the FCC annually. However, state agencies may host more than eight events.

Are there other requirements to have a FCC?

In addition to the 8 events, state agency commitment requirements include, but not limited to the following:

- Work with the RBFF to promote and market FCC events.
- Provide local conservation education and information at events.
- Provide an annual summary of FCC events and accomplishments.

See the program agreement for more details.

Commented [JM1]: Link to the program agreement once we have it finalized and have a URL for it.

Is there an application deadline to apply for a FCC?

Applications are accepted on an ongoing basis. However, due to funding and interest, a wait list for FCC's may be required.

How does a state agency get a physical trailer?

After a state agency has been approved for a FCC, state agencies will be required to look for a local trailer supplier. In some cases, RBFF can help direct state agencies to trailer suppliers that we have worked with in the past.

What logos are on the trailer?

After a trailer is sourced and built, RBFF will help state agencies with getting their trailer wrapped in an eye-catching FCC design incorporating the Take Me Fishing, First Catch Center and individual state logos.

Logos can also be modified to include partnerships with local organizations or trailer sponsors.

Is there a budget for each trailer?

The budget for each trailer and trailer supplies is a maximum of $25,000.